

Biography

Renaë Essenmacher

I grew up in the lower peninsula of Michigan and came to love the woods through my dad and our small woodlot at home. I earned my forestry degree from Michigan State University and have worked for the Wisconsin DNR for 20 years, the past 11 out of the Spooner office. The job includes forest management on private and public lands and wildland fire suppression. One of the most enjoyable aspects of my job is helping landowners achieve the goals they have for their property.
